BLUE RIDGE
Hospice™

Your Community Hospice

Through the vision of two local Virginia women, Blue Ridge Hospice was created over twenty-five years ago and has touched the lives of thousands of residents in the Shenandoah Valley and Piedmont areas of Virginia.

Blue Ridge Hospice is an outgrowth of the hospice concept in England that was introduced to the United States over 40 years ago. Championed by Helen Zearth and Gail Rodgers and supported by Winchester Hospital, Blue Ridge Hospice has dramatically changed the outlook on end-of-life care in our community.

Answering a Special Need

Blue Ridge Hospice provides hospice and end-of-life care to more than 200 patients and families each day. We provide bereavement support to more than 2,000 children, teens, and adults each year, regardless of whether their loved ones were hospice patients. In addition, we offer music therapy and spiritual support to those in the community.

We also offer services to the community through our Centers for Hope, including individual, child/family, and group counseling; support groups; community resource centers; workshops for community groups, churches, and businesses; and grief and loss support.

Brightening Life's Journey for Others

Over 170 staff members and 300 volunteers ensure Blue Ridge Hospice is able to provide quality end-of-life care to individuals and families. Services are provided to all, and no one is turned away. We are called upon to provide the best in symptom control and comfort when the benefit of curative treatment has been exhausted. We focus on quality of life for our patients and support their families and those in the community affected by death, dying, and loss.
